

Critical Mass... a very big bike ride!

CM is not a group or club, it's an occurrence, it occurs on the last Friday of each month at around 6pm in hundreds of cities around the world, from Atlanta to Yokohama, from Adelaide to Zürich on the last Friday of each and every month cyclists meet and ride together on their city streets to celebrate the way they travel.

There are no leaders, there is no organisation, there is no membership, it is not a demonstration, CM is a celebration.

For over eleven years London has been lucky enough to have a Critical Mass of it's own, but on the September ride police who normally help the ride traverse the motor-traffic clogged streets of our city gave us letters warning us that it is now considered illegal to ride your bike down a street along with other cyclists in a group, you know ...like cars do.

The next CM is October 28th at 6pm on the Southbank under Waterloo Bridge lets make this the biggest ride in London's history, let's show the police they can not discriminate against cyclists in this way. We are traffic.

The police letter can be found at <http://snipurl.com/cmletter>

<http://www.criticalmasslondon.org.uk>

<http://cmlondon.dyndns.org>

Critical Mass... a very big bike ride!

CM is not a group or club, it's an occurrence, it occurs on the last Friday of each month at around 6pm in hundreds of cities around the world, from Atlanta to Yokohama, from Adelaide to Zürich on the last Friday of each and every month cyclists meet and ride together on their city streets to celebrate the way they travel.

There are no leaders, there is no organisation, there is no membership, it is not a demonstration, CM is a celebration.

For over eleven years London has been lucky enough to have a Critical Mass of it's own, but on the September ride police who normally help the ride traverse the motor-traffic clogged streets of our city gave us letters warning us that it is now considered illegal to ride your bike down a street along with other cyclists in a group, you know ...like cars do.

The next CM is October 28th at 6pm on the Southbank under Waterloo Bridge lets make this the biggest ride in London's history, let's show the police they can not discriminate against cyclists in this way. We are traffic.

The police letter can be found at <http://snipurl.com/cmletter>

<http://www.criticalmasslondon.org.uk>

<http://cmlondon.dyndns.org>